Stockton's Growing National Visibility in Gerontology Profiled in Stockton Times

Last week's Stockton Times e-newsletter featured a story about SCOSA's growing national visibility. The article profiles the national professional activities of SCOSA’s Director, Research Chair/Fellow, and Program Assistant, and a GERO Faculty member that provide us with visibility for members in two... professional organizations, each with over 5000 members. Click here to read. In addition, SCOSA's head, Lisa Cox was recently interviewed by the AARP as one of 12 "Thought Leaders" on medical and financial challenges faced by AARP's 37 million members. Cox, nominated by NASW for this project, joined thought leaders from UCAL-Berkeley, USC, the Mayo Clinic, the Cleveland Clinic, the University of Michigan and elsewhere.

SCOSA is proud to partner with Village by the Shore, a new initiative by Jewish Family Services (JFS) providing services and socialization to older adults through a unique concierge style. Read about the partnership here.

Growing Up in the Other Atlantic City will be performed on campus from February 12-16 in the PAC Experimental Theatre, and on February 21st in Dante Hall. Click here for info. Celebrate the world premiere of an original collaboration by Atlantic City native, Guided Autobiography participant and presenter at SCOSA's 2013 Success Festival, Turiya Raheem. From the 1920s through the 1970s the Washington family helped build and shape a vibrant and thriving African American community in Atlantic City's Northside neighborhood. As we move through each decade of this true history, we witness the laughter, tears, ingenuity, hard work and commitment of one family's pursuit of the American Dream. The play was adapted for stage and directed by Pamela Hendrick, professor of Theatre at The Richard Stockton College of New Jersey, in collaboration with Raheem. For tickets and more information, call the Box Office at 609-347-2162.
