Degree Programs: Doctor of Education (Ed.D.) in Organizational Leadership, Doctor of Physical Therapy (DPT), Master of Arts in Criminal Justice (MACJ), Master of Arts in Education (MAED), Master of Arts in Holocaust and Genocide Studies (MAHG), Master of Arts in Instructional Technology (MAIT), Master of Business Administration (MBA), Master of Science in Computational Science (MSCP), Master of Science in Nursing (MSN), Master of Science in Occupational Therapy (MSOT), Master of Social Work (MSW), Professional Science Master’s in Environmental Studies (PSM) and a Master of Science in Communication Disorders (MSCD), and a Master of Arts in American Studies (MAAS). In addition, seven Educational Endorsement Programs are offered: ESL, Bilingual/ Bicultural, LDT/C, Preschool-3, Special Education, Principal Endorsement and NJ Supervisor Endorsement. Certificate and Preparation Programs include: Certified Financial Planner, Project Management Professional, Six Sigma, Supervisory Skills, Information Technology, Microsoft® Certified Solutions Associate, Substance Awareness Coordinator, Financial Crimes Investigations, Training and Development, Health Professions Preparation and Communication Disorders Preparation.

Dean’s Notes: Stockton enrolled students in its first master’s level courses in Business Administration in January 1997 and offered graduate courses in business administration and instructional technology in the summer 1997 term. Stockton’s first doctoral program was in Physical Therapy, which was approved in 2006 and a second doctoral program in Organizational Leadership was added July 2015. Each May, the University holds a Doctoral and Masters Graduation Ceremony during which each graduate student is hooded by the Dean of the Graduate School. Graduate students represent approximately 10 percent of Stockton’s enrollment.

Information and Open House Sessions are offered each semester, which give interested candidates the opportunity to talk with staff from the School of Graduate and Continuing Studies.

Continuing Studies, a unit of the School of Graduate and Continuing Studies, is led by Robert McNeill. The unit offers a wide variety of continuing education programming including:

• CEU-approved continuing professional education for professionals in the health sciences, human services and business and industry. The unit serves the continuing education needs of physical therapists, occupational therapists, speech pathologists and audiologists, addictions counselors, gerontologists, licensed professional counselors, registered nurses, public health professionals, and social workers and law enforcement professionals.

• Customized training for business and industry professionals who want to enhance their skills and their careers. Training can take place on-site or in our state-of-the-art learning facilities throughout the region. Seminars, workshops, leadership training, conferences, certificate programs, and distance education opportunities are offered for busy executives and managers. A wide variety of online professional and workforce development courses are available.

• Stockton University, through its Continuing Studies unit is now managing several Workforce Development grants from the Atlantic Cape May Workforce Investment Board. Our focus is on both work skills and life skills and our audience includes both youth and adults in need of employment.

• The Continuing Studies unit oversees the Center for Public Safety and Security which provides training, consulting and resources to law enforcement professionals throughout the state, and offers a wide variety of professional coursework and conferences all year long.

New and expanded community education offerings are regularly added to our schedule. Continuing Studies publishes a catalog of courses, programs and other educational opportunities twice a year.