

2014 NJ Anti-Bullying Conference for School Districts Set for May 28-29 at Stockton College

Miller Institute for Leadership & Diversity in America is Co-Sponsor

For Immediate Release; Coverage invited

Thursday, May 22, 2014

Contact: Maryjane Briant
News and Media Relations Director
Galloway Township, NJ 08205
Maryjane.Briant@stockton.edu
(609) 652-4593

Galloway Township, NJ –New Jersey's Anti-Bullying Law is one of the strongest in the country and to help school districts meet the law's new challenges and responsibilities, the 2014 New Jersey Anti-Bullying Conference (www.antibullyingconference.com) will bring together key state and national scholars and practitioners to present their expertise and knowledge about bullying prevention.

The 4th annual Anti-bullying Conference will be held on May 28-29, 2014 from 7:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Wednesday and 8:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. on Thursday at The Richard Stockton College of New Jersey Campus Center.

This conference is critical for school personnel including anti-bullying coordinators, anti-bullying specialists, school psychologists and social workers, as well as personnel from other organizations that work with youth.

Attendees will also learn and discuss evidence-based strategies and solutions for preventing bullying while building safe, caring school communities.

Conference presenters from all over the country and from a variety of backgrounds including psychologists, social workers, college professors, and trainers, have substantial experience in bullying prevention research and/or practice.

The keynote speakers are Dr. Michael (aka Mykee) Fowlin, an actor, psychologist and poet, and Dr. Maurice Elias, a professor of psychology at Rutgers University. Other scheduled speakers include: Dr. JoAnn Freiberg, educational consultant for the Connecticut Department of Education, Dr. Patricia Ciccone, superintendent of the Westbrook, Connecticut Public Schools; Dr. Judith Springer, Miller Institute for Leadership and Diversity; Stuart Green, director of the NJ Coalition for Bullying Awareness and Prevention, and Dr. Rita Johnson, professor of Psychology at Cheyney University, among others.

-more-

-continued from page 1-

“Our organization is extremely pleased to bring together such distinguished guests to address this important issue, and to help improve the overall educational experience for our children,” said Christopher C. Irving, executive director & CEO of the Ceceilyn Miller Institute for Leadership & Diversity in America.

The Southern Regional Institute and ETTC in the School of Education at Stockton College is sponsoring this event. For more information, visit the conference website at www.antibullyingconference.com. Members of the SRI&ETTC Consortium are able to register for this event through the SRI&ETTC website at www.ettc.net. For more information about registering for this program contact the SRI&ETTC at 609-626-3850

About the Ceceilyn Miller Institute for Leadership & Diversity in America

The Ceceilyn Miller Institute for Leadership and Diversity in America (CMI) is one of America's most innovative leadership and diversity training non-profit organizations. Dedicated to the causes of social justice and leadership development, CMI programs empower participants to function more effectively. The CMI team collaboratively identifies the needs and goals of our clients. Based on this information we develop comprehensive, customized programs that help effect long lasting change within our clients' organizations.

#