MBA

Stockton’s Master of Business Administration (MBA) program prepares students for professional careers in business. One of the principal goals is to help students develop critical thinking skills and to provide an expanded awareness of the complex political, social and economic environments within which all organizations and individuals must function. The program is oriented to persons with business backgrounds and to those seeking career changes. We prepare you to become a leader and decision-maker in an ever-changing global business arena.

Stockton’s MBA program delivers an experience—one that lets you build connections with your classmates and faculty as you examine relevant industry scenarios and explore creative approaches to problem-solving with your peers.

- Two degree options: general MBA and an MBA with an Accounting Concentration.
- Timely and relevant coursework.
- Classes are generally held one evening per week; classes are small, usually no more than 15 students.
- Some courses are offered online or in hybrid format (a blend of face-to-face and online instruction).

Program strengths:

- MBA students at Stockton receive excellent mentorship from full-time faculty and local professionals with extensive experience in their fields and ties to the business community.
- The MBA curriculum effectively blends foundation, electives, research, practice, and internships.
- The School of Business houses the New Jersey Center for Hospitality and Tourism Research.
- Stockton’s Graduate Student Council is active and provides opportunities that support the professional development of graduate students.

- The curriculum is structured around a solid core of organizational behavior, finance, marketing, accounting, economics, business methods, and professional ethics.
- We offer extensive elective offerings such as topics in hotel operations, e-commerce, services marketing, health management, labor-management relations, and capital markets, global management, nonprofit management.
- Internships are available.

Application deadlines:

- August 1 for fall
- December 15 for spring