Stockton Innovations: A journal of undergraduate research and creativity

Calling all original researchers!

Are you working on an original research project for your capstone project or course assignment? Would you like the chance to tell the world about it?

If so, PLEASE APPLY NOW to publish your work in Stockton Innovations, a new e-zine dedicated to publishing undergraduate student research.

Publish InDepth, a 1400-word article describing your capstone, senior research, or individual study project for a general audience.

Or, publish InBrief, a 500-word article describing your in-class group or individual research project for a general audience.

Eligibility:

You are eligible to submit work to Stockton Innovations:

- if you complete the research while still an undergraduate at Stockton
- if the project completion date is between September 2012 and May 2014, and
- if you can submit a draft of your article by April 1, 2014, and your finished article by May 2, 2014.

How to apply:

You can begin by filling out the Author's Submission Letter on the back of this flyer and giving it to your professor or faculty advisor to sign. This serves as your commitment to submit the final article by the due date.

Author Submission Letters may be turned in to Professor Lisa Rosner in B114 through February 21, 2014

You will be notified by March 7, 2014 via email whether your article has been accepted to Stockton Innovations. At that time you will receive additional instructions on how to submit the completed article.

For more information, please contact:

Professor Lisa Rosner, B114, Email: RosnerL@stockton.edu
Stockton Innovations:
A journal of undergraduate research and creativity

Author Submission Letter

Author Name(s) (for group projects, all students must submit their names):

__________________________________________________________

Email addresses for all authors:

__________________________________________________________

Cell numbers for all authors:

__________________________________________________________

Title of Article:

__________________________________________________________

Will you be submitting an InDepth article (for capstone, senior research, or individual study project, 1400 words maximum)? _________ Yes

Or will you be submitting an InBrief article (for individual or group projects in a course, 500 words maximum)? _________ Yes Description of research. Please be sure to include 1) at least one important thing you want people to remember about it and 2) why you think it is a new and valuable contribution to your field.

__________________________________________________________

__________________________________________________________

__________________________________________________________

__________________________________________________________

Author Signature(s):

I /We, __________________________________________ have carried out this research. I/We will be able to submit my/our draft by April 1, 2014 and the final article by May 2, 2014.

Faculty Advisor/Professor Signature:

I, ___________________________ have worked with this/these author(s) on the above project and I believe that it represents his/her/their original research while undergraduate(s) at Stockton College.