Diminished Capacity Incidents: A Litigation Landmine

Presented by: A. Michael Barker, Esq.

This is one of the Core Courses toward the completion of the Stockton College Certificate in Public Safety Liability Mitigation. Our program is designed for law enforcement, public safety and risk management professionals. The course is designed to teach techniques for dealing with citizens who demonstrate a diminished mental capacity. Concepts include:

- How to train your agency to deal with a variety of mental health issues.
- Methods to limit litigation arising out of these types of incidents.
- Excited delirium incidents and the rising use of “bath salts.”
- Dealing with citizens exhibiting signs of dementia or who may be on the autism spectrum, and others.
- The class includes a panel discussion with members of the legal, law enforcement, and medical community.

This program has been approved by the Board on Continuing Legal Education of the Supreme Court of New Jersey for 7.8 hours of total CLE credit.
