Galloway Twp. NJ – The Richard Stockton College of New Jersey has named Dr. Reva A. Curry as Interim Dean of Health Sciences.

Dr. Curry, a resident of Sicklerville, Camden County, formerly served as Vice President of Student Services at Salem Community College.

“Stockton is pleased to have added such an experienced educator to our School of Health Sciences,” said Dr. David Carr, Provost and Acting President. “Dr. Curry has served in leadership positions in both the health care and higher education environments.”

Prior to her Vice President's position at Salem Community College, which she held since 2001, Dr. Curry was Assistant Dean of Academic Affairs at the same institution from 1998 to 2001. Previously, Dr. Curry was Allied Health Coordinator at Harrisburg Area Community College and directed academic programs in Sonography at Thomas Jefferson University and the Medical College of Georgia.

Dr. Curry earned her B.S. in Radiological Technologies from the Medical College of Georgia, her M.Ed. in Health Services Education from Augusta College, and her Ph.D. in Educational Leadership from the University of Pennsylvania. Dr. Curry is also the author of a textbook on Sonography, published by Elsevier.
