Galloway, NJ – Janice Bond, of Egg Harbor Township, N.J., was recently named associate director of Stockton Aviation Research and Technology Park (SARTP) by the Stockton University Board of Trustees. Some of her responsibilities include implementing a solid business structure at the SARTP, including real estate, SARTP membership, funded research and programs, property management and communications; managing financial revenues and investments from federal, state, public and private entities; and developing and managing annual budgets.

Bond, originally from Galloway, joined Stockton University in 2012 as the associate director at Stockton's Seaview Hotel and Golf Club, where she oversaw daily operations of the hotel as operated by Dolce International, Inc.

Prior to Stockton, Bond worked at Galaxy Technology, LLC for seven years. She served as general manager, integrating financial records and contract data for more than 200 projects and associated tasks resulting from private to public acquisition.

Bond also served as chief of staff/marketing manager to the president of Galaxy Scientific Corporation, a government contractor providing consultation, engineering and technical services to agencies including the U.S. Department of Defense, U.S. Department of Commerce and the Federal Aviation Administration.

"I am truly excited for the opportunity to work under the direction of Joe Sheairs, executive director of the Stockton Aviation Research and Technology Park in supporting the efforts to implement a business structure," said Bond. "I feel my skill set working in the federal contracting world for over 14 years with the Federal Aviation Administration, the Department of Defense and other government agencies will be a benefit to the current needs and success of the SARTP."
