

Stockton Teams Up With Seton Hall School of Law and Investor Education Foundation for Seminar on Sound Investment Practices

Free Event Takes Place at Campus Center, March 1, 2012

For Immediate Release

Friday, February 24, 2012

Contact: Tim Kelly
Office of Public Relations
Galloway Township, NJ 08240
Tim.Kelly@stockton.edu
(609) 652-4950

Galloway Twp., NJ - The Richard Stockton College of New Jersey will team up with Seton Hall University School of Law's Investor Advocacy Project and the Financial Industry Regulatory Authority (FINRA) Investor Education Foundation for a free seminar on sound investment practices.

The event, which is open to the public, is hosted by Stockton's School of Business, the Stockton Center on Successful Aging (SCOSA) and the Stockton Center for Economic Literacy. It will take place from 4:30 to 6 p.m. on Thursday, March 1, 2012 at the Richard Stockton College of New Jersey's Campus Center Board of Trustees Room. Free ample parking is available in parking lots 2 or 3 at the campus here.

"In today's economy, smart investing practices are more essential than ever before," said Stockton Associate Professor of Business Studies Marilyn Vito. "People need to learn the principles of proper investing, how to determine if they have been victimized by investment fraud, legal options and other key considerations. This seminar aims to de-mystify investing and help people take control of their investment strategies."

The event is free and open to the public, although pre-registration is required. Please call (609) 652-4534 for more information or to register.