

Stockton Sets Choreoproject 34; Annual Event Has Become a “Must-see”

November 29 – Dec. 1 in Stockton Experimental Theatre

For Immediate Release

Tuesday November 27, 2012

Contact: Tim Kelly
Office of Public Relations
Galloway Township, NJ 08240
Tim.Kelly@stockton.edu
(609) 652-4950

Galloway Twp., NJ - The Richard Stockton College of New Jersey presents the dance performance ChoreoProject 34 at 7:30 p.m. from November 29 through Saturday December 1, 2012 and at 3pm on Sunday Dec. 2nd in the Experimental Theatre of the Stockton College Performing Arts Center.

“This 34th annual edition promises to live up to our reputation as a ‘must-see’ performance for dance enthusiasts or anyone who enjoys an evening of great entertainment,” said Assistant Professor of Dance, Rain Ross. Tickets, at $8 for general admission, $7 for students, are available at the Stockton College Performing arts Center Box Office. Call (609) 652-9000 or visit www.stockton.edu/pac.

ChoreoProject presents student choreography in a professional setting. The choreography ranges from novice to experienced, and seeing a performance showcases how choreographers grow in their craft.

"I want to give it my best because I know it's the last chance I have to perform with some of these dancers. I'm also excited to perform with fellow student, Gabriel Reyes, since we have wanted to dance again together. The student choreographed show gives us a chance to create this opportunity to dance together again during our final year at Stockton," says Rachel Hill, who is a senior dance major and performing in the show.

ChoreoProject allows students to explore new ways of working together and performing, creating an exciting opportunity for new ideas on the stage.

The program is funded in part by the New Jersey State Council for the Arts/department of State, and is sponsored by the School of Arts and Humanities and The Performing Arts Program, Dance.

#