SUBJECT: Pilot Scholarship of Engagement Recommendations, Spring 2015

The Research and Professional Development Committee, joined by Daniel Tomé and Merydawilda Colón, met Thursday, February 26 to discuss and vote on the proposals for the spring pilot round of scholarship of engagement funding. We reviewed 4 proposals for a total of $26, 873 in requested funding. We recommend funding 2 projects for a total of $11,573, which will leave $13,027 of these pilot funds unspent.

These proposals, added to the four we recommended for funding in the fall, mean the pilot funding has now supported faculty members from 3 of the academic Schools (there were no proposals from ARHU, GENS, or the Library). The projects support research that furthers the scholarly goals of individual faculty members and engages with local organizations. Scholarship will include

- Studying the effects of medical marijuana use by patients for a community-based organization
- Investigating the number, experiences of, and needs of former foster youth enrolled at Stockton University and sharing this data with a regional group actively working to develop better support for these young men and women trying to earn college degrees

First Name	Last Name	School	Project Title	Amount Awarded
Tara	Crowell	HLTH	Pain Relief and Overall Wellbeing of Patients using Medical Marijuana	$6,000
Robin	Hernandez-Mekennen	SOBL	A Needs Assessment to Identify and Investigate the Needs of Former Foster Youth at Stockton College	$5,573

RE: Fiscal Year 2016 R&PD Internal Grants Recommendations

The main Call for Proposals for FY16 Research and Professional Development resulted in complete applications from 45 faculty members who requested a total $269,808.87 of the $210,000 available for funding. They requested an average award size of $5,996 (compared to $5,887 last year); 51% of the applicants are tenured (compared to 50% last year).

The committee members reviewed each proposal, and were assigned one fourth of the proposals for written feedback. Every proposal was fully discussed by the collective, then a secret vote by each member yielded a rank order of the proposals. Proposals were recommended for funding by School as follows: ARHU, 9 of 10 applicants; BUSN, 3 of 5 applicants; EDUC 2 of 2 applicants; GENS, 3 of 3 applicants; HLTH, 3 of 4 applicants; NAMS, 11 of 12 applicants, and SOBL, 7 of 7 applicants.

The committee recommends funding the following proposals, for $210,023, twenty-three dollars over the available funding. We also recommend funding two strong proposals out of funds remaining from other rounds, if this would please be permitted. Specifically, we ask 1) that we can fund the following project with funds remaining from the Scholarship of Engagement round, as committee members agree that this project strongly meets the definition of scholarship of engagement. There are $13,027 remaining in that pot, which could cover this project (and the extra twenty-three that we are over budget for the main round), and there would still be unspent money in the scholarship of engagement pot. Yesterday, I reached out to Daniel Tome and Awilda Colon about their support for this request, and I have already heard from Dr. Colon, who would support our recommending funding the project out of those funds should it be approved by the administration.

Dr.	Marissa	Levy	SOBL	"Evaluation of Atlantic County enhanced Stationhouse Adjustment Program"	$6,000.00
-----	---------	------	------	--	------------

We also wish to 2) give Nathan Long, the only applicant asking for a course release, the course release we have left over for next year because Pete Straub had to decline his after being named Interim Dean. That would support his project, as below:

Mr.	Nathan	Long	ARHU	"Fifty-Fifty: Book Manuscript Project"	$6,000.00
-----	--------	------	------	--	------------

If either of these two requests (Levy and Long) is not granted—and we understand that this might happen—then we'll need to revisit the decisions for the other proposals listed below as Levy and Long's projects were both very highly ranked projects and proposals that we would definitely want to support.

Table with other recommended projects, in alphabetical order by author's last name:

Dr.	James	Avery	SOBL	"Income Bias in Voter Turnout and Income Inequality in the American States"	$6,000.00

We thank the Deans, Provost, President, and Board for their generous support of faculty research, creative activity, and professional development.

April 14, 2015

Dear Provost Kesselman,

A subcommittee of the Research and Professional Development Committee met yesterday to review 16 proposals, requesting $27,873.16 in funding, largely for conference travel, but also to index a book and for a few other project-related items. We had $7,500 remaining in the Provost Opportunity Funds, which had been reserved for projects in this final quarter. We cut heavily, as was clearly necessary given the gap between available funds and requested funds. First, we eliminated weaker proposals entirely and removed all per diem and local travel requests. Then we subtracted $337 from each proposal in order to provide some funding to the remaining projects.

In addition, we hope to fund one of the stronger proposals, that of Shelly Meyers, EDUC, entitled "Teacher and Faculty Collaboration to Improve Academic Performance of Students with Disabilities: A Case Study" for $2,000 out of the remaining ($7,000) unspent Scholarship of Engagement Funding, given that her conference presentation comes out of scholarship of engagement work she's been doing with local school districts. Merydawilda Colon and Daniel Tome both also support this suggestion. Please let us know if you do not support this recommendation, as then we'll need to make further cuts to our recommendations (in the table on the following page).

As always, we thank the Deans for being prepared to lend their support to so many proposals, both those we supported and those we did not, and for adding comments to several proposals that provided us with additional information. Thanks, too, to the Provost and President for providing these funds. Their presence is especially valuable in this final quarter to support travel and other needs when School budgets have been more heavily exhausted.
